About

Sachin Arora is a Delhi-based AI trainer, keynote speaker and business consultant on a mission to close India's biggest gap in the AI era: the gap between those who understand AI and those who don't.

A non-technical B.Com graduate who once sold newspapers and worked as a bus conductor, Sachin taught himself AI while running his own businesses. Today he trains students, employees and business owners to use AI in simple, everyday language, with desi analogies anyone can grasp in minutes.

"India mein AI ki kami nahi, AI ki samajh ki kami hai."

India doesn't lack AI. It lacks an understanding of AI.

From selling newspapers to teaching AI

Sachin's story is the heart of every session. If a non-technical person can learn AI, anyone can.

The beginning

Sold newspapers, worked as a bus conductor, and faced 12 job rejections. A ₹100 note from his wife Tara kept him going.

Corporate & first business

Worked at WNS, then built and ran his own call centre until health issues forced him to close it in 2020.

Starting again

Drove for Rapido, then built Travel Minati and Bee2Bees, a B2B travel platform with 5,000+ associated travel agents across India.

Discovering AI

Taught himself AI to solve real problems in his own business, built an AI platform, then exited to focus fully on training.

Now

Trains students and employees in schools, institutes and companies to use AI in their daily work

Implements AI for corporates, helping businesses bring AI into real processes

Keynote speaker at The AI Conference 2026

Invited by podcasters for interviews, including the "Voice of Leadership" podcast

Hub Leader of "AI for SMBs — Grow Your Business with AI" at Guftagu – A Circle of Trust

"AI aapki job nahi leta, wo insaan leta hai jisne AI seekh li."

AI won't take your job. The person who has learned AI will.
